FORT QU'APPELLE

Celebrates the Diamond Jubilee in Grand Style—4,000 People

Present—The Races.

Happy Time at Hednesford—Many People Make Merry—Our

Reporter Enjoys Himself.

The Jubilee sports, in commemoration of the sixtieth year of the reign of Her Majesty

Queen Victoria, were held on Monday and Tuesday last. The weather was most favourable. The committee of the Turf club are to be congratulated for the very efficient manner in which they carried out their arrangements. The townspeople also deserve great praise for the very effective manner in which they decorated the town;

the triumphal arches, bearing appropriate mottos, being very pretty indeed.

On Monday afternoon, the Gymkhana sports, in connection with the Polo club, took place, and afforded much amusement to the large crowd assembled. The Fort club carried off no less than nine out of ten prizes.

On Tuesday morning a vast crowd, estimated at 4,000 people, assembled on the grounds and thoroughly enjoyed the grand programme of sports provided for them.

At 9:30 a.m., a grand football competition was held, the following clubs having entered: Spenceville, Edgely and Fort Qu' Appelle Industrial School, Spenceville beat the Industrial School by 1 to 0, and although the time for the final game between Edgely and Spenceville was extended by three-quarters of an hour, neither side scored, and it was decided to divide the prize. The games throughout were fast and good.

At 10 a.m., a grand polo match between

Brandon and Fort Qu'Appelle was held, in which the Fort boys were easily the victors.

The races started promptly at 1:30 p.m., the vast crowd of people marching from town to the grounds to the strains of the Industrial School band, under the able leadership of Prof. Shack. Dr. Creamer of Qu'Appelle Station, acted as starter; Mr.
Macpherson, Brandon, and Mr. Hollis, Trench-wood, as judges. Following is the result:

The 3-year-old colt race: Andrew's Trilby took the first, Matchett's Braime winning

in the next two heats.

The 14 hands pony race was won by Hazel, Polo in second heat.

The open half-mile trot was won by Powley's

Oliver Kid.

Pony trot, won by Hastings's Lou, Indian

Heat.

In the 3-year-old colt race: Andrew's Trilby

took the first, Matchett's Braime winning
in the next two heats.

The mile open running race was won by Evaline.

In the half-mile race: Hollic's colt ran well.

Indian race: Shaver's 1st, Pat-hum-the-back finishing second.

J. Slater won the consolation.

In the evening there was a grand display of fireworks on the race track. These were efficiently managed by Mr. E. W. Reid.

It is the general opinion of the people present that the race meeting was one of the most successful ever held in the Territories.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church, had a sale of work, also a lunch counter on the day of the races, and it is gratifying to know that the total proceeds were over $175.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

On Friday last, the trustees and Rev. A.
McKenzie visited the school, and delivered appropriate addresses on the life and times of Queen Victoria. The rooms were very artistically decorated with flags and mottoes.
The following is the programme of the proceedings:

"Rule Britannia"—Harold McDonald.

Address—"Victoria and Her Times"—Mr. A.
McDonald, chairman of school board.

"Our Empire"—Mr. Kerr, trustee.

"The Maple Leaf"—Miss Maule, teacher and pupil.

Address—"Progress of Victoria's Reign"—Rev. A. McKenzie, B.A., "Canada, the Gem in the Crown"—Olive Kerr, "Love of Country"—Alfred Payne, "Our Native Land"—Leo S. Smith.

At the close of the programme the benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. Mc-Kenzie. Before leaving the room, Mrs. A.
McDonald, Mrs. J. A. McDonald and Mrs.
J. Webster presented each pupil with a Jubilee medal and Union Jack.

At Hednesford.

Her Majesty's Jubilee picnic was held at the residence of Mr. T. Barton, at Hednesford, on the 22nd, and a money through gathered together in honour of the occasion.
The S.W. R. train for a Jubilee address, which was perfect, and everyone present felt satisfied that they were going to have an enjoyable day's outing; nor were they disappointed. Everything that could be done to ensure the pleasure of those who attended was carried out by the committee.
The sports commenced at 10:30 a.m. The following are the prize winners:

Long jump—Alex. Melvor, Regina.

Putting the shot—Wm. Grant.

High jump—J. McAd.

Pole jump—Max Malle.

The tug-of-war contest by the Bluffs vs.
Prairie team led to the tie in the tie.

The tug-of-war contest for the 100 lb. prize, and partook of a sumptuous repast which rivaled the feasts of old. After luncheon Mr. Harrison entertained the company by giving several select organ and piano recitations. Mr. F. Barton, chairman, then turned over to Mr. Dixie Watson for a Jubilee address, which was received enthusiastically by all present. The band gave several lively pieces, after which all repaired to the grounds to witness the races and other sports, which began at 2 p.m.

VICTORIA'S JUBILEE.

ONLY FOUR WHO WERE PRESENT AT HER CORONATION

Are Now in the Land of the Living-- Nelson, Leicester, Gladstone and Villiers--How England Has Grown Great Since Victoria Was Made Queen.

Queen Victoria has outlived nearly all of her contemporaries. This is perhaps not a fresh piece of news. But it is brought to mind just now in a peculiarly vivid manner by the fact that of those peers and personages who attended the coronation of her Majesty, only four remain to figure in the grand diamond jubilee which will be held on June 22 next.

They are the Earl Nelson, who, as a 13-year-old peer donned his silver coronet for the only time in his life at the moment when the Archbishop of Canterbury solemnly placed the crown of Great Britain upon the head of the Queen; the patriarchal Earl of Leicester, who acted on that occasion as page of honor; and train-bearer to the sovereign's uncle, the old Duke of Sussex; Mr. Gladstone, now in his 84th year, and Mr. Villiers, "the Father of the House," who at the age of 55 still takes part in the deliberations of Parliament.

Both Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Villiers witnessed the Queen's coronation from that portion of Westminster Abbey reserved for the accommodation of the members of the first Parliament of the present reign.

With these four notable exceptions, all those who stood around the sovereign during the first jubilee of her occupancy of the throne have departed for another world, preceding her to that land from whence no traveler—not even the "Anointed of the Lord"—ever returns.

The Archbishop who crowned her, the ministers and statesmen whom she sought counsel in her youthful inexperience, the great soldier, Arthur, Duke of Wellington, who performing the functions of Lord High Constable of the Realm carried the great sword of State before her, lay even the very titled maidens who have been trained at the hands of their fathers, have every one of them gone down to the grave before her. This in itself cannot fail to endow the jubilee of Victoria with a certain degree of pathos, especially when the venerable sovereign of the British Empire will be seen making her slow and difficult way up the nave—so truly alone and homeless in the midst of the vast and magnificently attired throng—to the thousand-year-old throne of King Edward the Confessor.

In Westminster Abbey.

How who have seen Westminster Abbey on ordinary occasions would recognize the ancient face on that day. For tier upon tier of seats, thronged with beautifully attired women, and men arrayed in uniform glittering with every degree of magnificence will fill all available space. The participants in this unique pageant,

QUEEN VICTORIA.

Indeed, will be so closely packed together that each golden frame of stone will have its dazzling living picture, while the hoary walls of England's grand old metropolitan cathedral will seem hidden by a species of living curtain, sparkling, animated and literally palpitating with enthusiastic loyalty.

The religious portion of the ceremony will be short, the direction thereof being entrusted to the archbishops of Canterbury and of York, to the bishop of London and to the dean of the Abbey, all four of whom for this occasion will wear those magnificent gold embroidered, purple velvet mantles with long trains that are known as the "cardinal robes." It will consist of a "Te Deum" composed by the Queen's lamented husband, of a superb chorale likewise by the Prince Consort and commencing with the words, "Because thy God loved Israel, therefore made He the King to do justice and judgment, the national anthem being introduced in a manner peculiarly thrilling and effective.

Then the Archbishop of Canterbury, himself now on the threshold of his eightieth year, will intone the "Thanks giving," as well as the prayers for the Queen while the solemn blessing, read from the throne by the archbishop, followed by slow and sustained "Amen's" chanted by the choir of three hundred surpliced men and boys, stationed in the organ gallery, will bring to a close this impressive and unique divine service. Throughout this service the Queen will occupy the throne of King Edward the Confessor, over which will be thrown the royal robes of purple and ermine. It will stand on a dais that fills up the entire space between the choir and the altar, and facing the altar, which will be laden with gold plate and beautifully adorned with white flowers, and the left of the throne and behind it will be set gold chairs of state for the Princes and Princesses of the Royal family, and for their illustrious relatives from abroad. At each corner of the dais will be stationed the gorgeously caparisoned and gold-bedecked gentlemen-at-arms, while the fine train of the Queen, the Abbey to the throne will be kept by the Yeoman of the Guard or "Redcoaters" arrayed in their quaint medieval costume which dates back to the day of Henry VIII.

And then when the last strain of the "Amen" have died away, and the organ commences to peal forth the magnificent Reformation march from "Athalia," the Queen's children, her relatives, and her royal and imperial guests will approach one by one to pay homage to the grand old lady, who is not merely the mother of kings, but the grandmother of emperors, and the Matriarch of all the sovereign houses in Europe.

If at that moment her lip commences to quiver and tears unbidden well up to her eyes, and stream down her wrinkled cheeks, no one need feel in the least surprised. For let alone the changes that have been wrought during the three-score years that have elapsed since first ascended the throne, she cannot but sorrow over the disappearance of many of those who were present at her golden jubilee in the self-same abbey only ten years back. She will look in vain for her gallant and stalwart son-in-law, Emperor Frederick of Germany, the noblest figure of the present in 1857, and his tragic death will be recalled to her memory by the widow's weeds worn by her eldest daughter, the dowager Empress of Germany.

The same somber garments of Princess Beatrice will revive the scene of the death which she sustained through the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg, gone.

PRINCE ALBERT.

too, are her Majesty's son-in-law, Louis, the burly Grand Duke of Hesse, her brother-in-law, the late Duke Regent of Saxony-Coburg-Gotha, and her favorite grandson, the Duke of Clarence. She will likewise look in vain for ex-King Amadeus of Spain, Duke of Aosta, who represented King Humbert at her golden jubilee, and for the ill-fated Crown Prince Rudolf, who attended the celebration in behalf of his father, the Emperor of Austria and of Hungary. Nor are these the only shadows which will at that moment weigh down her heart and depress her spirits. For the abbey is for her a Walhalla peopled by the ghosts of the illustrious dead, who in their lives bore up her hands so that they should not fall. Most of her Prime Ministers—Bessborough, Peel, Palmerston, Aberdeen and Russell—many of her most gallant soldiers such as Lawrence, Outram, Haycock and Clyde—aye, well nigh every one of those whose existence was devoted to her service and to endowing her reign with lustre lie buried within the walls of that ancient, hallowed, and hallowed place, where their spirits hover in the air, and toward the throne in order to recall themselves to the kindly memory of their royal mistress by a species of supernatural homage.

Victoria's Reign.

While no great wars have marred the lustre of Victoria's reign, yet it may be considered as the most glorious period in the entire history of Great Britain if one is to judge by the growth of the area, the population, and above all of the wealth of that empire upon which the sun never sets.

The population of the United Kingdom alone has well-nigh doubled, as has also the number of her Majesty's lieges in India and in her Colonial dependencies, the grand total of those who now accord her a willing allegiance, amounting to the colossal figure of 329,000,000. In 1837 the area of the British Empire amounted to 2,000,000 square miles, whereas to-day it is five times that size, its superficies exceeding 10,000,000 square miles. The aggregate property of the people of the United Kingdom, calculated on the basis of the "income tax" figures, has trebled in the last sixty years, as has also the revenue of the State, while the advance in the foreign trade of Great Britain during the same period has been more than 450 per cent.

The output of coal to-day is exactly twenty-five times as large as it was when her Majesty ascended the throne, and whereas, at that moment, the annual consumption of cotton barely exceeded 4,000,000 pounds, the returns for the last year show a consumption of more than four times that amount. And all this addition in land, in wealth and in population has been acquired not by great and sanguinary conflicts and campaigns, but during a reign that on the whole may be described as the most peaceful in English history.

Indeed it is this absence of those huge wars which contribute so much to obstruct the progress and to impair the prosperity of the nations involved therein, that must be regarded as accountable for the phenomenal development of Great Britain's wealth, industry, trade and enlightenment—especially the last. It is a colossal task even to attempt to enumerate the changes that have taken place since Victoria became Queen.

There was no regular or properly organized postal service, three score years ago, and the price paid for the conveyance of the mails was enormous, people being compelled to pay as much as 30 and 40 cents for the transport of a letter for a few miles only. It was not until 1859 that "penny postage" was introduced, and the success of the scheme, so widely denounced at that time, may be gathered from the fact that during the twelve months which have just been brought to a close no less than 2,323,339,610 letters, post cards and parcels have been delivered in the United Kingdom through the post office.

In 1837 there were no railroads and no steamships. The journey from Liverpool to London was accomplished by means of a "coach and four," while the trip across the Atlantic to New York was regarded as a quick one if done within six weeks under sail, in lieu of the six days which it takes today by such a Queen.

Victoria had been several years a queen before telegraphy was introduced, while it was not until she had become a grandmother that the submarine communication with the United States was established. Photography, electric light, telephones, phonographs, etc., were all unknown when she became Queen, and the first entry of an iron-built ship on Lloyd's register was made when Queen Victoria's reign was only six weeks old, while during the three score years which have elapsed since then Great Britain's commercial tonnage has increased by close upon 1,000 per cent.

It was not until several years after the birth of the Prince of Wales that chloroform and other anaesthetics came into use for surgical operations, and though it is scarcely creditable, within the memory of Victoria surgeons have been obliged after amputation to resort to the barbarous methods as those practiced in dealing with the wounded during the battle of Trafalgar—namely, to plunge the bleeding stumps into hot pitch to stay the hemorrhage.

Thousands upon thousands of hospitals and analogous charitable institutions have been called into existence in the British Empire during the last three-score years, partly through the influence of the Queen herself, and partly through that of her eldest son, the Prince of Wales, the people having been taught by their illustrious ruler, and by her children, as well, to believe that the best and surest way to royal favor was to vote money to the relief of those of their fellow-citizens in want and misery. Thus, all through the memorable visit of the Prince of Wales to India, whenever the active princes in their excess of enthusiastic loyalty expressed their intentions of erecting costly statues and monuments to the Queen in their dominions, as a memorial of his stay, he invariably urged them to devote the money instead to the construction of charitable institutions, explaining that it was by relieving the distressed and the less fortunate of the Sovereign's lieges that they would best please her Majesty and himself. The result is that to-day in India some splendidly equipped hospital or charity marks every town and city in which Albert Edward halted during his progress through England's great Oriental empire, just one and twenty years ago.

The same policy has been pursued at home, and by this means millions upon millions of dollars, which would otherwise have remained in the pockets of their donors, or hoarded in banks, have been lavished upon charity and philanthropy, and it is in keeping with the entire tenor of the reign of Queen Victoria that the sixtieth anniversary of her accession to the throne should by her particular wish—so eloquently expressed in the "World's Progress."

While Victoria was on the throne, serfdom was abolished in Russia and slavery done away with in the United States and Brazil, Russia lost some territory in Europe, but gained in Asia. Turkey sank from a first-rate to a no-rate power. Africa was largely explored, and the dark continent on its map nearly all cleared up. The age of steam, only fairly begun when she ascended the throne, reached its highest estate apparently, and the age of electricity was ushered in before she died, the telegraph, the telephone, electric lighting and electric transportation all coming into being. The advances in science generally was marvelous. Literature and the useful arts flourished as never before. Education was more widely diffused, and the newspaper press became a factor in affairs. The cause of constitutional government progress everywhere in the civilized world, save perhaps in Russia. Even in faraway Japan the old forms of government were superseded. In short, the progress of the world in nearly every direction during Victoria's reign was greater than ever before.

Mrs. Barkley, the wife of Capt. Barkley, Well-Known Lake Captain of Owen Sound, Ont., Tells How La Grippe Left Her, and How Often Doctors Gave up Hope and how her Family and Friends Despaired of Her Recovery—The Great South American Nerve and Blood Purifier Directed Her into the Good Health Harbor.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with a severe attack of La Grippe, which left me almost a complete wreck. I was prostrated for weeks. I doctored with several physicians and used many remedies, but none had any lasting effect. My friends began to be alarmed for my recovery. The doctors shook their heads and held out little hope. I was attracted by an advertisement of South American Nerve and Blood Purifier, and I positively declared that it was the only remedy that gave me any relief."

Ethel—Do you believe in palmistry?

Mabel—Oh, it's all right for a starter, if the fellow's shy.

WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

Is the Testimony of Frank B. Emerick, of Alvinston, Ont. Says South American Kidney Cure Saved his Life—It Relieved in Six Hours.

"For two years I was greatly troubled with kidney disease. I suffered intense pain and frequently was unable to work. I doctored at intervals but got little or no relief. I began to grow worse and the pains were frequent and intense. About this time I saw South American Kidney Cure advertised as a speedy relief for all kidney troubles, and I bought a bottle. It gave me wonderful relief in a few hours. I improved steadily, and after taking four bottles I am completely cured. I consider it worth its weight in gold, for it assuredly saved my life."

She—Do you belong to a cycling club, or are you unattached? He—Neither. I'm married.

WILL CARRY THE SCARS TO HER GRAVE.

Spent Thousands for Health, but Did Not Obtain the Greatest of All Blessings Until She Used the Great South American Rheumatic Cure—Suffered Intensely for 12 Years.

Mrs. E. Brawley, of Tottenham, Ont., states: "I suffered almost continually for 12 years with rheumatism, the effects of which I will carry to my grave, and while the joints in my elbows and wrists are yet still I am entirely freed from pain in the use of South American Rheumatic Cure. It has indeed proved a wonderful cure in my case. I have thousands of dollars in doctors' bills and medicines without avail. Five bottles of this wonder-worker has cured all pain. I am better in health generally than I have been for ten years."

Good nature is the very air of a good mind.

Salt Rheum Cured.

Gentlemen—Your Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of salt rheum three years ago. It was so bad that I lost my finger nails, and I can truly say that I know of no more valuable medicine in the world than B.B.B. I have had no return of salt rheum since. MRS. JAS. SANDERS, Emerson, Man.

OUR QUEEN'S DIAMOND JUBILEE.

Ring in her Diamond Jubilee!
All honor to our Queen!
Our Queen Victoria, thanks to God,
Our eyes this day have seen;
Thro' all the years of weal and woe
She lives beloved and true;
A blessing every inch a Queen,
The Queen a woman, too.

A Queen with most supreme contempt
For all things base and mean!
A woman with the tenderest heart,
For suffering sorrow keen!
A sudden terror in a mine,
A sad cry from the sea;
And, quick as thought, the Queen's kind heart
Responds in sympathy.

Well may her people feel with her,
One both in joy and woe;
And could they only bear her griefs,
No sorrow should she know;
But, ah! it must be ever thus,
No let exempt from pain;
But pain, God-given, and sanctified,
Brings blessings in its train.

With tears she hears them hail her Queen!
Tears for the Widowed One,
Whose bitter loss prepares the way
Thro' which she mounts a Throne.
Most faithful daughter! loving wife,
And happy mother, we See in our Queen's great happiness
How deep her grief could be.

And learn to love the sympathy
Born of her own great loss.
The great refining fire, Heaven-sent,
That burned up all earth's dross,
And now the Queen thinks of her poor
And plans that earnest way.
That they may see she thinks of them
On that auspicious day.

God bless our land, and bless our Queen,
And keep her long in life,
To rule in peace and use her power
Against unholly strife;
And when her long and happy life
Shall close in joyful peace,
Great Heavenly King! receive our Queen,
Where Love can ever cease.

The World's Progress.

While Victoria was on the throne, serfdom was abolished in Russia and slavery done away with in the United States and Brazil, Russia lost some territory in Europe, but gained in Asia. Turkey sank from a first-rate to a no-rate power. Africa was largely explored, and the dark continent on its map nearly all cleared up. The age of steam, only fairly begun when she ascended the throne, reached its highest estate apparently, and the age of electricity was ushered in before she died, the telegraph, the telephone, electric lighting and electric transportation all coming into being. The advances in science generally was marvelous. Literature and the useful arts flourished as never before. Education was more widely diffused, and the newspaper press became a factor in affairs. The cause of constitutional government progress everywhere in the civilized world, save perhaps in Russia. Even in faraway Japan the old forms of government were superseded. In short, the progress of the world in nearly every direction during Victoria's reign was greater than ever before.

WRECKED.

Mrs. Barkley, the wife of Capt. Barkley, Well-Known Lake Captain of Owen Sound, Ont., Tells How La Grippe Left Her, and How Often Doctors Gave up Hope and how her Family and Friends Despaired of Her Recovery—The Great South American Nerve and Blood Purifier Directed Her into the Good Health Harbor.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with a severe attack of La Grippe, which left me almost a complete wreck. I was prostrated for weeks. I doctored with several physicians and used many remedies, but none had any lasting effect. My friends began to be alarmed for my recovery. The doctors shook their heads and held out little hope. I was attracted by an advertisement of South American Nerve and Blood Purifier, and I positively declared that it was the only remedy that gave me any relief."

Ethel—Do you believe in palmistry?

Mabel—Oh, it's all right for a starter, if the fellow's shy.

WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

Is the Testimony of Frank B. Emerick, of Alvinston, Ont. Says South American Kidney Cure Saved his Life—It Relieved in Six Hours.

"For two years I was greatly troubled with kidney disease. I suffered intense pain and frequently was unable to work. I doctored at intervals but got little or no relief. I began to grow worse and the pains were frequent and intense. About this time I saw South American Kidney Cure advertised as a speedy relief for all kidney troubles, and I bought a bottle. It gave me wonderful relief in a few hours. I improved steadily, and after taking four bottles I am completely cured. I consider it worth its weight in gold, for it assuredly saved my life."

She—Do you belong to a cycling club, or are you unattached? He—Neither. I'm married.

WILL CARRY THE SCARS TO HER GRAVE.

Spent Thousands for Health, but Did Not Obtain the Greatest of All Blessings Until She Used the Great South American Rheumatic Cure—Suffered Intensely for 12 Years.

Mrs. E. Brawley, of Tottenham, Ont., states: "I suffered almost continually for 12 years with rheumatism, the effects of which I will carry to my grave, and while the joints in my elbows and wrists are yet still I am entirely freed from pain in the use of South American Rheumatic Cure. It has indeed proved a wonderful cure in my case. I have thousands of dollars in doctors' bills and medicines without avail. Five bottles of this wonder-worker has cured all pain. I am better in health generally than I have been for ten years."

Good nature is the very air of a good mind.

A THANK OFFERING.

A CLERGYMAN WRITES ON BEHALF OF GRATEFUL PEOPLE.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored their Health and they Wish Other Sufferers to Know it. A Letter that will Bring Hope to Many—No Other Medicine Gets Such Voluntary Praise.

The following letter written by the Rev. Wm. Lawson, Methodist minister at Richibucto, N. B., attests in the strongest manner the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and a perusal of it will suggest why this great medicine is so popular in thousands of homes throughout the Dominion—it cures with other medicines fail.

Richibucto, N. B., April 26th, 1897.

Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS.—I am glad to furnish you the following voluntarily given testimonial, with the fullest permission to give the names and place. They do this as a thank offering to God and your medicine.

Mrs. Wm. Warman, of Melus River (near here) says her son Alden was sickly from birth. He could hardly ever retain food, and his parents had but little hopes that he would live long and the doctors who attended him were of the same opinion. Till seven years of age he continued in that condition. Then the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was begun, and under them he recovered and is now a strong and healthy boy. Mr. Warman, the boy's father, also adds his testimonial to the great value of Pink Pills, saying: "I suffered for three years with a bad back, until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they cured me." Miss Annie Warman adds this evidence with enthusiasm and freedom: "I was weak and sickly and did not know the blessing of good health till I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I used eight boxes and have since enjoyed the best of health. In fact I am never sick now."

Here you have three members of a family restored to health by the use of your medicine, and you would almost covet their good health, and general ways largely resulting from such health. They wish you to freely use these facts to help other sufferers, and I am able to attest their pastor to certify to the facts above stated.

Sincerely yours,
WM. LAWSON,
Methodist Minister.

Others Fail! It Cures!

Dear Sirs.—From my own experience I can confidently say that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry possesses true merit. It was the means of saving my little girl's life last summer. She was too high and took violent diarrhoea. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cured her, and I feel that I cannot say enough in its favor. MRS. WM. ARTHUR, Toronto, Ont.

The failures of life come from resting in good intentions.

Tobacco Heart.

Gentlemen—My heart troubled me with violent palpitation, shortness of breath and sleeplessness. This was caused, my physician advised me, by excessive use of tobacco. Since taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills the distressing symptoms have entirely disappeared. They have cured me, and I am thankful to testify to their good effects. (Sgt.) W. J. JONES, St. Thomas, Ont.

A laugh to be joyous, must flow from a joyous heart.

They Are Good.

Mr. Jas. Hagan, the well-known ex-alderman of Kennebec, Ont., says:—For some years I have been greatly troubled with pain across my back. Urinary troubles caused me much loss of sleep, and I suffered from a tired worn out feeling. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief in a short time. The pain in my back has disappeared, and I feel that I would be doing wrong to recommend them to others suffering as I did. They are the best medicine I ever used."

THE FERN is a well-developed Mine with enough ore now in sight to supply a 10-stamp mill for two years.

The value of this ore has been ascertained by milling and smelting quantities in a practical manner, and it runs from $10 to $200 per ton.

Five tons, taken from an open cut on the surface, and Milled at the Poirman Mill near Nelson, gave a return of $601 per ton in free gold, and showed a value of $50 per ton in concentrates, making a total value of $11 per ton.

The tunnel at main level, which is in 400 feet, on ledge, cut this same rich ore at a depth of about 160 feet below the surface, and now shows continuous rich ore for one hundred feet, which runs from $2 to over $30 per ton.

The mine is proven to a depth of over 225 feet.

The Profit on ore now in sight should be sufficient to pay twice the capital of the company.

Among the reports on this property, embodied in the Prospectus, is one from the well-known Mining Engineer, John E. Hardman, S.B., who speaks most highly of the company's prospects.

300,000 shares of the stock have been subscribed for by an underwriting syndicate, which guarantees all the cash required by the Company, and arrangements are now being made to equip the Mine with a 10-stamp Mill, which it is hoped will be running early in August.

Only 100,000 shares will be offered to the public at par, and a large number of these have already been applied for.

The Prospectus contains full information, and will be furnished on application to the Brokers.
